

To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to recommend Duli Maksuti, who worked as the mobile app and front-end team lead at our company until our company's recent closure.

During his time with us, Duli consistently demonstrated exceptional technical expertise, leadership, and professionalism. He led our frontend team with skill and dedication, delivering high-quality results and guiding others with patience and clarity. His ability to tackle complex challenges, solve problems efficiently, and own projects end-to-end made him one of the most trusted people on the team — I knew I could count on him completely.

What set Duli apart was not only his high level of skill, but also his integrity, reliability, and genuine care for the success of the team and the company. He consistently took ownership of his responsibilities and could be fully trusted to handle any task with diligence and precision. His presence had a positive impact on our culture, and he earned the respect and appreciation of everyone who worked with him.

On a personal level, Duli is a pleasure to work with. He is respectful, thoughtful, and highly regarded by colleagues across all departments.

I have no doubt that Duli will be an incredible asset to any organization lucky enough to work with him. Please feel free to contact me if you would like to hear more.

Sincerely,
Yael Erel
